It was generally known that Miss Bond would be the first witness on the stand, so the court-room was crowded to its utbishop Elect Elder. stand, so the count-room was crowded to its utmost by the eager, curious throng. Miss Bond came in supported by her mother and sister, taking a large arm chair prepared for her and having at her back a pillow. Judge Edwards conducted the exumination for the prosecution. Miss Bond, after the preliminary questions, stated that on the attennoon of June 21, 1882, she dismissed her school shortly before 4 o'clock, and, after sweeping and quisting, started to leave the building, when she was suddenly seized from behind by a man who had dropped from the scuttle hole above. She was choked till she was bilind, her shawf tied round her waist and then she was pulled to the loft above. As she went up she saw the face of one man in the loft, and there (pointing to John C. Montgomery), is the very man. I will swear that is the face I saw. She also noticed that the other man in the loft had on low-cut shoes and red stockings. She was taken up and laid on a platform prepared for her in the loft. She told the men she would rather loss her life than her virtue and the gates were opened there was a rush for the auditorium, the seats of which were soon filled. tion they will be entitled to recognition and protection.

FEW CHANGES WERE MADE in the Constitution, these being technical. The reserve rule is introduced in the Coustitution in article 6, section 12, and is embodied in the Day resolution, as follows: "Any reserved player, who, while so reserved, shall play any game of ball with any club other than the one which reserves him, shall forever be debarred from playing with the said club reserving him." The effect of this is to eternally shut such players out from any club belonging to the union of associations under the national agreement. It leaves a chance open for any reserve player to return to the reserving club before Aprit next. The League will also adopt the resolution. This gives Gleason, Mullane, Dunlap, Manseil and other reserved players.

After that they will be debarred for all time. The season bas been extended, and will now cover a period between May 1 and November 15. The games are reduced to ten to exch series: there will be two visits as herrefofore. The $65 arrangement remains intact. A heavy penalty will be inflicted on clubs not filling engagements, except on account of unavoidable accident or

WE regret to hear that certain enterprising citizens of Dallas, Texas, have organized a lottery scheme for the benefit of the City of Mexico, that they have secured the names and influence of two leading Mexican statesmen, and that they expect to make a barrel of money out of the gullibility of the Mexicans. If the thing is attempted the prospects are that in six months the enterprising citizens of Dallas will be wearily counting the ties on the road to Vera Cruz and begging the Consul for passage to Gal- et. veston. Mexico is filled up with lotteries, and the sale of lottery tickets is the leading industry of the capital. The Mexicans can teach the people of Dallas more about lotteries in a day than they could teach the Mexicans in twenty years. The principal point in the lottery business is not to let an outsider get away with the prize, and the build up a republic of their own. It is possible that an end has been put to the hopes and aspirations of Arthur, but a man who has the machinery of the Government and the army of office-holders at his back is not easily discouraged. At all events, it is clearly demonstrated that there is a close alliance between the friends of Biaine and the friends of Logan, and it is one that means business."

THE TIMES. The Times says: "One decided gain has been made as the result of the instructions of the last convention in securing district representation and abrogation of the unit rule. This will make to the annoyance of the other members of that body who are opposed to his having the publican sentiment than the last and render in more difficult to manipulate masses of del egates in the interest of any candidate egates in the interest of any candidate. Hence the chances for action for the good of the whole party is improved. The pre-liminary canvass may now be considered as opened, but it will be some months yet before any very active interest can be awakened. When the time comes politicians will find it expedient to take a very careful note of the tendencies of popular sentiment in both parties bid fair to develop with unusual rapidity and force."

The Tribune says: "In electing Senator Sabin as its permanent chairman the Republican National Committee yesterday made a wise choice He has not been identified in any way with fac-tional disputes, and he possesses the energy and chairman. In deciding to hold the next conven-tion in Chicago, the committee reached a satistion in Chicago, the committee reached a satis-factory compromise on conflicting claims. Where the Readers of the Post-Dispatch Get a Hearing. ST. Louis, December 12, 1883.

There is a good deal of excitement just now bout the many andacious robberies committed in our city, and Sertg. Boyd knows no better explanation than that they were committed by criminals who had been released from the jails at Jef-Inals who had been released from the jails at Jefferson City, Joliet and Chester. This will not hold good, however, because quite a number of daring crimes were committed two years ago, at about the same season, when this immigration of criminals was not extant. At that time it was attributed by the property of this. Mr. Leggett questioned him at great length. criminals was not extant. At that time it was at-ributed by some to the incapacity of Chief Mc-Jonough (?); it is at present attributed by some o the spirit of lawiessness, official immorality, the spirit of lawiessness, official immorality, e., of the Police Board members lately tried by e courts. Some, however, look for a deeper use, and find it partly in the criminalistic literure with which the country is being flooded, not by by the Police Gazette, dime novels et id omnes mus, but ny those papers that induige in issuitonaism. There is undoubtedly a good sensationalism. There is undoubtedly a good deal of common sense in this view, for the proverb is true that "what will once be a book crooks early." As the child is father of the man, so is the unruly boy father of the criminal. A good attention to youth's training should be had not only by parents and school, but also by the press, pulpit, theater and what else makes un modern education. I trust these few suggestions will meet the earliest attention they deserve by all parties interested, and who should not be, in educational matters?

Gambling Must Go.

SOUTH ST. LOUIS, December 12, 188 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch. Grant me just a little space in your columns to express my gratification at the excellent manner in which you described the nature of the gambling institution situated on Sixth between Chesinut and Market, in your article headed "A Fakir's Tricks." This den is managed by a coarse and brutal looking fellow whose features are certainly an index to his character. He is one who should be shunned and condemned by all classes of honest society. His methods are just as fair and legitimate as robbery, and it is very gratifying to see the Post-Dispatch make the effort to wipe out this stain from one of our public thoroughfares. These are the men who, with their entieing and fraudigient schemes, do more to keep down the standard of respectable society than any other known social evil. They are hardened and shameless outcasts to the very core, and your well directed effort to show them up deserves the appreciation of every honest man. Very truly.

More Interesting Developments Regarding the Kissing Coterie That Met at the House of Annie Higbee-Several Modest Maidens Who Were Fondled and Slobbered Over.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, December 13. — The Highee-Vaughan mock marriage case went on all hight, and the parties to it did not reach their homes until the a chapter on kissing. The Flatbush boys followed one another upon the stand, and they and the lawyers fairly revelled in the details of promiscuquently, but she was at times lost sight of and the youngsters made as free with the doings of other Methodist misses as the law permitted them to do with the reputation of the brown-eyed plaintiff. The farmers drove away one or two at a time, the tipplers began to yield to the superior attractions of the bar-room next door, the elderly women dozed, the stage-driver who was to take all the boys and girls to Flatbush in one stage, freited and fumed at the delay, and the judge looked from the lawyers to the clock and back again. Still the tales of hammocks and of caressing rolled in upon Mr. J. H. Beatty, the stenographer, who filled two and a half thick books with them. Hours went by and the reporters thinned down from a dozen to two, the dowagers slept sweetly.

THE ANCIENT POLICEMAN
yawned, the bar-room became a thick brown cube of tobacco smoke, the judge gave up his task of watching the clock, and the whole town of New Utrecht, except the court officers, put out its lights and pulled up its bed-clothes and fell asleep. Still the Methodist boys went on with their confessions, and the Methodist girls grew straighter and more rigid in their seats. Their eyes flashed as they exchanged giances, and the stage-driver grew pale as he thought of the task before him of taking both sides of the question several miles together in one vehicle. Waiter Vaughan, the defendant, distanced all the others, and was sworn by the girls to the the general beau. Mr. Leggett tried to get him to admit that the grave charge Miss Annie Higbee made against him was true. He absolutely denied it. Mr. Leggett brought out the fact that on every night except one Waiter went with companions to visit Annie. On the night he went alone she swears that they entered upon ford avenue, and Dr. Solon F. Bliss, of No. 652 of this. Mr. Leggett questioned film at great length.

Q. When did you see any young men put their arms around Miss Annie and kissher? A.—I have seen Ed Berry kiss ber and I have seen her kissed by Nefus. Snyder and Charley areson. It was one of the Sunday nights that I saw Berry kiss her. Neither Nefus nor any one got my permission to put his arms around her.

Q.—Have you ever written to Gertie Bennet?
A.—Yes, one or two letters in five or six years. I have written several letters to Miss Houtman.
Q.—You have not laid in a hammock with Miss Houtman? A.—I don't know. I might have.
Q.—During last summer? A.—Well, at their houses. I don't think I have with Miss Houtman, but I won't be positive.

A.—Yes.
Q.—If Miss Bennett and others should go upon the stand and swear you did not hug and kiss them it wouldn't be true, would it? A.—Yes, sir. I did.
Charles Areson, the next excessively frank witness the standard of the charles are should be seen to be seen t

He first met Annie at an oyster supper. He belonged also to an elocution class which Annie once attended. This is part of his tart testimony:

Q.—This occurred every time you went and A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—You had your arms around her waist? A.—Yes, sir; very often.
On cross-examination he said he kissed Annie in the presence of Walter and Ed. Berry on the 2ad of July. The second time he met Miss Annie and Miss Munday on Clarkson street and kissed Annie at the gate. The next time was in the hammock at Miss Munday's. There were FOUR IN THE HAMMOCK, Berry and Miss Munday, and Miss Higbee and himself.

himself.

Q.—This kissing did not make any impression npon your mind? A.—No, not on my mind, on my lips. I never kissed any girl that it made any impression on my mind.

There was more about kissing, then Edgar H.

There was more about kissing, then Edgar H. Berry gave his version of the mock marriage. He did not know who proposed it.

"I was not married by a minister," said he. "I took a young lady's arm and said. 'Fil cail you my wife.' That was Miss Ella Moulton. I took my girl on a wedding tour in the wagon, I stood on the tail part of the wagon." This witness told in a matter of fact way of having kissed Annie, of having sat in the hammock with her and of having hugged her. This was all on one evening, he said, "and Areson was there and we took turns at the kissing."

"Are you not known in Flatbush by the name of the Cupid." Lawyer Leggett liquired.

The witness has an imperiection in his speech. He stammers, and his eyebrows and mouth move together when he attempts to talk. The odd question and his ladignant effort to say "No, sir," provoked a roar of laughter. Mr. Frank Hodgins was then sworn. He did not care to kiss Annie the first time he met her, he said. The next time are more about kissed her on the way. "I put my arms around her," said he, "because I thought I'd get a better impression on the kiss." There was more about kissing on the eross-examination and the rest was put off until Saturday afternoon.

CONSIDERABLE OF A TIME. Midnight Fight in a New York Saloon

A Friendly Affair. By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, December 13.—"There must be quite a time in there," said one of those police men who stand in Bleeker street, near The. Allen Saloon, at 12:45 o'clock this morning. About 400 persons, men and women. had assembled in the saloon at midnight to witness a glove contest be-tween Dan Custy of Brooklyn and Jim Sweeney f this city. The place was crowded and men and vomen stood on the tables and bar in their eagerness to obtain a sight. To allay the suspicion of the officials who were present, it was announced the officials who were present, it was aunounced that the contest was merely a friendly one. Time was called and the men shook their gloved hands. They sparred for an opening, and then Custy leu on S'weeney's eye and received a straight counter on the nose that made the claret flow. They sparred for an opening, and then A STREAM OF BLOOD poured from his nostrils. They then got at half-arm work, and Sweeney thumped Custy's face, eyes and head, while the latter returned the work with interest on the ribs. Both were getting exhausted with the rapid fighting, when Custy hit Sweeney flush on the throat and the New Yorker went down. Whea he arose he was promptly knocked down again. More half-arm work was indulgen in and Custy was knocked down. As he rose; Sweeney struck him and Jim Simki cried "foul." Cries of "foul" resounded througheut the place, but Mike Donovan refused to allow the claim, and time was called for the second round. Sweeney led at Custy, hit him between the eyes, and he went down. He rose quickly and they rushed together like wild men. They fought to Custy's corner when Custy, by knocked the hapless Sweeney slear off his feet.

He arose in a few seconds, and, in answer to a lead, received Custy's right on the point of the jaw, and he fell like a log. They then sparred for wind, so weak were they, and time was called. Before they could respond for the third round; an uproar in the corner attracted attention. All over the house loud shouts and hard words were heard before, but this particular row developed into a fist fight before it could be stopped. It seems that a young man with three well-dressed women occupied seats behind Bob Smith. The women expressed a wish that Custy should win. This annoyed Smith, who attacked the man nearest him, who proved to be a deputy sheriff from Brooklyn named O'Hailoran. Alex. Maguire went to stop up fight, and "Wes" Allen jumped on to the fighters. Then began a free fight, and those in the center of the hall were frightened nearly to death.

those in the center of the hall were frightened nearly to death.

Really to death.

Chairs and tables were overturned, women fainted, and the cursing men and shrieking women would not heed Pop Whittaker's stentorian tones when he bade them stop. Then to the mass of struggling and ferocious fighters and knocked them right and left and stopped the fight. A semblance of order was restored, and Pop Whittaker announced that Allen would not allow the contest to proceed. A man in the crowd shouted, "fight on," and Allen jumped on the stage and said, "they will not fight on if a million such as you said otherwise." The hubbub that then arose was augmented by the sight of some men carrying out the women who had been in the midst of the row, and who had fainted and been trampled on.

enetrated by a Bullet Six Weeks Ago-

NEW YORK, December 13.-Charles Reimer, 17 years old, of No. 98 Sumter street, Brooklyn, shot himself in the head in the parlor of his home on Sunday, October 28. The shooting, he claims, was accidental, and was done while he was handling a 22-caliber revolver. The builte passed six inches through the middle of his brain. According to the physicians, it is there yet, but Reimer has fully remined to the bosom of her far evening after listening to one of your dissertations. Show as sober, per mure. The bright glow of the fire covered and has returned to his work in this city as sound in mind, body and spirits as before. He was attended by Dr. J. Nehrbas, of No. 441 Bed-

Herkimer street, until he surprised them by get-ting well. The doctors made the following stateting well. The doctors made the following statement:

"We found that the bail had entered the middle of the right side of the head, an inch and a half above the right ear, and that it took a slightly downward ourse of six inches, directly through the reasoning faculties. The young man's pulse was at forty-eight beats to the minute. We probed for the bullet, going three inches into the brain and finding the passage made by the bail LEADING STILL FURTHER IN.

Then we agreed to leave further probing till the next day, and put the young man on strict anti-phiogistic treatment to atlay; the inflammation which we expected. We did not anticipate his recovery, but confidently expected his death within twenty-four hours, and gave his family no hope. His pulse ralied before evening, rising to fifty-five degrees, and very little inflammation set in. These were favorable symptoms, but we did not deem that there was the least chance of his surviving. Next day we probed again, going five inches into the brain and iocating the bullet an inch further in. We judged that it would only hasten death to remove it, and concluded to let it stay there. Although we had no hopes of the young man's recovery, we persisted in our treatment, the patient's father and mother doing the nursing. He, unexpectedly to us, gained every day, till at the end of two weeks he was comparatively comparatively OUT OF DANGER.

He is now fully recovered and has gone back to work in as sound health, mind and spirits as he ever enjoyed apparently. A POST-DISPATCH correspondent called at the house of Dr. Bliss. "Have you any doubt, Doctor, that the ball is yet in young Reimer's brain?" he asked.

"None whatever," said the Doctor.

"How do you know that it ever went in?"

"Because our probes found the aperture made by the ball leading away through the membrane and tissue of the brain at least six inches, and as the bullet did not come out on the left side, it stands to reason that it must be there.

it, and

NONE WERR VERY VIOLENT.

Only the left side, and limbs were convulsed. "I attributed it to the pressure of the bullet against the nerve centers of the left side of the brain."

"You don't anticipate any disturbance to his reason or health by the after consequence of this bullet wound?"

"I don't."

"To what do you attribute his recovery?"

"To proper nursing and treatment and a system entitley free from even a hereditary taint of liquor."

'Is not his case unique in surgery?" "Gross mentions a few cases almost similar, but in none of them has the bullet traversed the direct center of the brain as this did. For instance, he quotes a case recorded by Drs. W. W. Keen and Wm. Thompson in the Philadelphia Photographic Review of Medicine and Surgery for 1871, where a man who bad three inches of the base of his skull taken off by a bullet at the battle of Anitetam—the brain itself being severely conof Antietam—the brain itself being severely a great depth in the cerebrum. It was taken out, he was treated rigidly on anti-phogistic principles, and recovered."

The reporter then went to see the Reimers.
Charles came home in high spirits, and possessed of a good appetite. The scar above his right ear is no larver than a five cent piece. He was found to be as described bythe doctor and he said he felt first rate.

"That only proves the truth of the belief I have always had," said Dr. Maun of Brooklyn: "that the brain is a much harder substance than the older physicians and surgeons ever suspected. If I had a cerebral abcess now I should not hesitate to call in a brother physician and tell him to trepnine my skull and remove the abscess. I would assume the responsibility."

A hand-car on the Tuscaloosa branch of the Nashville, Chaitanooga and St. Louis Railroad, upon which seven workmen were riding, bounced from the track on Wednesday, and binniged from a trestle down fifty feet to the ground. Two of the men were killed, one fatally injured and the rest badly bruised. It was the work of trainwreckers. A gennine Missouri cyclone swept over Great Britain on Wednesday. Buildings were blown down and lives lost in London, Birmingham, Derby, Rotherhall, Manchester, Leeds, Bradford, Widnes, Birkenhead, Belfast, Shields, Portsmouth, Hartlepool, Dewsbury, Chester, Liversudge, Ber-wick, Nottingham, Rildwick, and at Dunare and Stranraer, Scotland.

An Opportunity.

From the New York World.

Senator Beck's bill which proposes to restore Jefferson Davis to citizenship does not seem to be attracting sufficient attention from the bloodyshirt organs. If Mr. Davis is restored to citizenship, he will not only lave the right to vote, but he will be called upon to work the roads and sit on juries.

BAND OF BURGLARS.

Eight Robberies Committed by the Gang in One Night.

One Hundred Convicts Marching on the City-The Arrested Men Released-The Quiet One-A Cruel Hoax

The burglars and thugs did very little work last night, as was to be expected. "Everything was quiet as a graveyard," said a police official to a as quiet as a graveyard," said a police official to a Post-Disparch reporter this morning. "You bet the boys were all hustling last night." By "the boys" were meant the patrolmen on night duty, and possibly a few of the astute detectives. Of course they "hustled" as they always do, after work has been done. The burglars knew that they would be "hustling" and as a consequence, the latter gentlemen went to bed, and got a good night's rest, which they were certainly entitled to on the valid ground that they had been working very hard the night before. They had better sense than to make another raid last night. The police had learned through the newspapers and in other ways that the GHT DISTINCT BURGLARIES AND ROBBERIES, me renait named william Bellin, whose place of tusiness is at 1400 Russell avenue, was visited on the same evening by the night raiders. When ne came down to his office yesterday morning he discovered that his safe was missing from the office, and he afterward found pieces of it scattered all over the back yard. The gang had been down there and had blown the safe to pieces and carried it out in fragments. Every nook and corner of the office had been ransacked. The burglars in this case, however, made a water-haul. There was no money to be got, because Mr. Heim had deposited all of it in the bank the night before. They carried off a number of books, papers, receipts and notes, none of which are of any value except to the owner. Mr. Helm's principal loss is his safe, which contained $200 and which is a total wreck. Two crowbars and a hammer with the name "Schledick" burnt on the handle, were left by the midnight callers.

liche Post, was also "called upon" Tuesday night. When he arose yesterday at his residence, No. 924 Winter street, he discovered that his pantaioous, containing $19, a new overcoat and his watch, worth $100, were missing. His wife's watch, worth $50, $12 which was in her pocket-book and $35 beionging to her aunt were also goue.

Late yesterday afternoon, Mr. Harris, who lives at 1931 Morrison avenue, reported that his house had been raided. Part of the goods taker were a gold watch and chain, a Japanese cigar-holder, inlaid with gold, and a large quantity of clothing. These, with the robberies given yesterday, make up the programme of "big work" for Tuesday night alone, although there were a multitude of smaller robberies. So far but LITTLE IS KNOWN OF THE PERPETRATORS of these crimes. The police of the Fifth District arrested Timothy Edward Ivers alias Iverson, Billy Warren and Samuel Thomas. The men, whose ostensible occupation is peddling, were taken to the Fifth District station, where they were locked up. Soon after, Kaller, the butcher who was robbed on Theresa and Lindell avenues, came in. He was pretty sure that Ivers and Warren were the men who robbed him, but when pressed, he said he would not swear to it. Out of the dozen men arrested by the police in the Third District yesterday, all but two have been discharged this morning. The system pursued is a curious one. When a robbery takes place the police go and take in all the hard cases they know. Then the detectives make a raid and jerk in lots of thugs, with most of whom they were on intimate terms long before they became fly cops. The people who are robbed then come down, look along the list, shake their heads and go away. Finally, the men are released and the police point to the number of arrests as an evidence of what they have done. One of the men still locked up at the Third Station is Mr. John B. Kennedy, who was very neatly taken in last night by Officer William King, who worked the whole case him self. When searched, he had on his person eigh

CAUSES OF INSANITY. Examination of Two Experts on Insanity-Bible Precedents-Murderer Cain.

NEW YORK, December 13,-Two physicians were examined yesterday as experts in insanity in the case of ex-Policeman Conroy, on trial for murder in the Court of General Sessions. John C. Hannan testified that sunstroke frequently caused insanity: that insanity is often caused by blows on the head fretting the brain; that it is often the result of a hereditary taint, and that where the latter exists it is more easily developed by either or both of the former causes. "Where PRICES, insanity is latent, or dormant," the witness said," it is often aroused by alcoholic stimulants." When asked if William Conroy was same when he killed Keenan, the witness answered that he was not. The form of insanity under which he was then laboring was, in his opinion.

ACUTE ALCOHOLIC MANIA.

On cross-exammation the witness was asked if he had ever been in the South or West. He answered that he had been in the South.

Why is There Not an Annual Inspection of the Military.

The Present Condition of the First and Third Regiments-Companies of One and Two Men-Would the First Regiment Survive an Inspection?

Through the medium of Lieutenant Jay L. Tor-rey, Brigadier-General Lawrence some days ago ued an order to the lieutenant-colonel of the issued an order to the lieutenant-colonel of the First and Third regiments and the commanding officers of the Scottish Highlanders, Leslie Zouavés and Company A, light cavairy, commanding them to report to headquarters the number and rank of the regimental and battallon non-commissioned officers, and the number of sergeants, corporals, musicians and privates in each company of their respective commands. The object of this order may be perceived when it is known that the law requires the Adjurant-Gen. known that the law requires the Adjutant-General to report to the Governor on the first day of each year the effective strength of the various military bodies of the State which come under the jurisdiction of the National then asked Gen. Squires how many men the First Regiment could turn out when called on. "Seven hundred," responded that officer. "How many men can you turn out?" Col. Butler was asked.

"I couldn't state exactly," said that officer, cau-tiously, "but I think about 250." "I cotilan't state exactly," said that officer, cautiously, "but I think about 250."
Both gentlemen were ordered to assemble their regiments the next morning at 6 o'clock. When the assembly was made, it was learned that the First Regiment showed up about thirty-five men and the Third, 3:2. On the night of the trades' procession in October, the First Regiment did not turn out seventy-five men. A number of officers were asked about the condition of the First Regiment, but would not talk unless assured that their names would not be given. The condition of the Third Regiment is admitted to be good, but the other regiment is said to be shaky. How true this is, is a question which ought to be determined by an inspection. The public certainly ought to know how strong the regiments are, and it would be better for all concerned were an investigation into the regiments ordered and immediately carried out.

ERIG-GEN, LAWRENCE

into the regiments ordered and immediately carried out.

BRIG-GEN. LAWRENCE

was asked this morning why an order had been issued for a report of the number of non-commissioned officers, privates, etc., instead of an order for inspection. "I have merely issued the order at the request of the Adjutant-General," said he. "The Adjutant-General would order an inspection, not 1. I merely order district inspections. I don't think an inspection has been held for two years, probably three; that is, an inspection of the men. The ordnance, equipments, supplies, etc., are inspected every year. The order I have issued is, I suppose, in fleu of an inspection."

The ladies of St. Patrick's Parish are making to the private of the private of the properties. inspection."

"Have you any knowledge of the numerical strength of the First Regiment!"

"I haven't got the last revort of the Adjutant-General here." said Gen. Lawrence. "The best man to get that from is Lieut. Yocum, Col. Hazard's adjutant, to whom the report of officers are made, but he is now out of the city. Col. Hazard could probably tell you."

Col. Hazard was not at his office this morning. COCOAINE promotes the growth and beauty of he hair and renders it dark and glossy.
